

```
int array[] = {10, -3, 14, 2};
```

array is now a pointer to the first element *array is currently 10, the first element array + 1 is a pointer to the second element

*(array + 1) accesses the second element array[1] is equivalent to *(array + 1)